

GUDRUN BOYSEN

Gudrun Boysen, MD, DMSc, graduated from Copenhagen University where she became professor of neurology in 1993. Her main clinical and scientific interest is within cerebrovascular diseases. In 1989 she was co-author of the AFASAK trial showing the effect of oral anticoagulation with warfarin in atrial fibrillation. She has been active in the introduction of thrombolysis therapy of acute ischemic stroke in her country, Denmark. Her further research has dealt with epidemiology of cerebrovascular diseases and with secondary stroke prevention. She is now active in primary prevention of stroke and cardiovascular diseases. In August 2009 she received the Nordic Stroke Award. Number of scientific publications is 267 of which 224 are in Medline